The 21st International Symposium on Olfaction and Electronic Nose (ISOEN 2026)

Partnership Offers

The 21st International Symposium on Olfaction and Electronic Nose (ISOEN 2026) will take place in Chongqing, China during May 17-20, 2026. ISOEN is the leading scientific conference dedicated to advances in artificial olfaction, taste, and related technologies. It brings together researchers and industrial partners around the world to present and discuss the latest innovations in electronic noses, biosensors, and machine olfaction. Since its inaugural conference in France in 1994, ISOEN has successfully held 20 editions in various cities worldwide, attracting numerous industry experts, scholars, and practitioners from across the globe to participate. This is the first time ISOEN will be held in China. The conference organizers for ISOEN 2026 is Prof. Fengchun Tian and Prof. Lei Zhang from Chongqing University, who will welcome participants to Chongqing, one of the most dynamic and technologically advanced cities in China.

Through this prestigious international platform, we will provide sponsoring enterprises with comprehensive publicity and development opportunities. We hereby warmly invite enterprises across relevant industries worldwide and other potential partners to participate in this conference. Let us join hands in collaborative efforts to advance our industry and facilitate the transformation of outcomes for mutual benefits.

We look forward to welcoming you to an exciting and inspiring conference in Chongqing, China, in May 2026!

TOPICS OF INTEREST

- E-noses & E-tongues
Including but not limited to sensor array based, VOC analysers, IMS, optical based systems etc.
- Odor and Gustatory Perception
Mechanism, impact, applications.
- Olfactory Display
Novel technologies, wearable device, virtual reality.
- Data Analysis
Classification and quantification techniques (machine learning, bioinspired algorithms, AI based algorithm etc.), improvement of metrological performances (drift, baseline stability, sensitivity, selectivity, interferences, reproducibility, etc.)
- Regulations and Standards
E-nose, e-tongue or related sensors.
- Gas and taste and related Sensors
Chemical sensors, olfactory biosensors, cell-based olfactory sensors, receptor-based sensors, bioinspired smell and taste sensors; novel detection principles, sensitive materials, sensor arrays, etc.
- Odor Sampling
Odor/ gas/liquid sampling (static or dynamic sampling, headspace analysis, pre-concentration, storage, etc.
- IoT and Robotic Systems
Related to sensor arrays for odors, tastes, and complex gas/liquid mixtures detection.
- Applications
Medical, industrial, agriculture, environmental, food and beverages, cosmetics & fragrances, forensic, anti-terrorist, energy (such as hydrogen detection) etc.

Notes:

1. Sponsors shall provide print-ready artwork files for handbook advertisements, which will be collected and printed by the conference secretariat.
2. Corporate promotional materials for conference bag inserts shall be provided by sponsors.
3. Sponsors shall provide production-ready files for booth backdrops, to be collected and manufactured by the conference secretariat.
4. The 1-day pass grants access to any single day of the conference (includes admission and lunch on that specific day; conference materials excluded).

As the world's premiere technical conference in artificial chemoreception, ISOEN 2026 will bring approximately 200 participants from academic, research and corporate organizations.

The exhibition will be closely integrated with the technical program through tutorials, plenary sessions, sensor and sensor systems demonstrations and social activities for delegates and exhibitors alike.
